a sepulcher, full of death and blight."

bodies, but not sufficient mental calibre to care for their children. "As he sows so shall he reap." personal wants any better than in early childhood. We are told that God wills the salvation of all souls, Their father and mother are cousins. With the habits but he cannot and will not save souls without human common to ignorant people, blor d poisoned with whisky and tobacco, the tissues of the body built up on pork and corn; is it surprising that these old people are utterly discouraged in their poverty and the failure of all the wives for their vigorous health, their moral and spiritual burdening the world have been wise and timely?

not born." "It becomes the duty of scientists and lives desirable, not an intolerable burden to themselves reformers to see to it that this class of parasites do not and society; that will endow them regally, not impov-ity in many families. This may be considered an ex-children of men, the work of the church-Christ's church treme case. But do we not see such results in a degree on earth-will not be the expounding of doctrine, callall around us? How often do we hear of good men, ing upon men to save their souls by sprinkling or fearing families be so afflicted ?"

the religious and secular mind shall have been dis- preachers must begin by casting out their own selfishabused of the popular error that God creates every child ness and cultivating virtue and purity in their souls, that is born, calls him forth into life by the flat of His and so manifest it in their lives that from them will emawill. Here human responsibility is ignored by the masses and Divine Providence becomes the scape-goat for our sins and shortcomings. But this immunity does not extend to the breeding and improving of table as spiritual law, and impress up the minds they domestic animals. The farmer and stock raiser would direct that there can be no real virtue except knows to a certainty that if he wishes fine cattle and when manifested through a healthy body. Therefore spirited horses he must be wise in selection, careful to the attainment and preservation of physical health besupply nutritions and abundant food and provide just comes a cardinal virtue. And above all must we stead-enough exercise to insure the health and vigor of the fastly live our principles of beneficence and purity if

wife and mother, is over-burdened by housekeeping and the care of her little children; her husband stupidly the cancer at the heart that is draining our strength, oblivious of the fact. She says: "Once we were riding; consuming our life and vital force, defrauding little

He remembered to be kind to his horse and care for his colt in embryo. He knew his responsibility there, ical necessity," have wailed about "sexual starvation" but he had no thought for his own child. I fear this is and "over-population." Medical teachers and physinot an unusual case, for, alas, it is the experience of cians have recommended marriage or concubinage as many wives. Another one writes: "I have no money a specific for sexual diseases. All manuer of protections only what I can get on the sly." Meaning if she could and prevention to conceptions, with fasticide, (which find small coin in her husband's pocket she would take often means suicide,) have been devised. Some have it, if she thought he would not miss it. His children even professed consecration of sexuality, which proves responsibility in the matter. They are God's children creation, but to me they are all false teachers, false prophnot his. will inevitably be sly and thievish. But he feels no to be another name for sensual indulgence without proof population. For it will be considered " a sin to entail It would make a vast difference in that man's conerime upon society, and equally a sin to make one's house duct, and still more in the character of his children, if he believed himself to be a free moral agent in this mat-There has recently come to our knowledge a family ter of generation, and while holding the balance of of eight idiots, all grown to men's estate, with stalwart power is largely responsible for the endowment of his Sbjects of life? Would not legislation that would have tendencies by inheritance and the effect of personal habinterfered in preventing the marriage of such persons, its of life, and the probable result to their children from or after their marriage, have interposed its beneficent combination with their own peculiarities; before they restraints to have prevented these eight crimes from dare jeopardize the welfare of offspring, who are so helplessly dependent upon their ancestors not only for "This is the class that are damned into the world, the breath of life, but for qualities that will make their drain the life of the parent tree."

Such are the penalties and disappointments that result from a life of ignorant sensuality and irresponsibility when this great day shall have dawned upon the ministers of the Gospel and devout Christians, having wild, vicious sons and unreliable daughters, and how often is the question asked, "Why should such Godety, the cleansing of sensuous lives, the diminution of criminal classes, the care and education of youth by A great stride forward will have been taken when every elevating and salutary influence. Teachers and we expect to do good to others. Especially must we This point is aptly illustrated by a correspondent in a live lives of sexual holiness and pure continence except recent number of the Women's Journal. The writer, a for procreation, whether married or single. Sexual at the foot of a hill he told me to get out and walk up children and the cause of the increase of crime, disease, as his mare would foal in July. My baby would be born premature death and all the sorrows that blast our lives and go to make up its wastes and burdens.

They all lead to the same results—disgust, loathing, THE WOMEN'S NATIONAL RELIEF ASSOCIATION. disease. The desecration of the God-like creative In the autumn of 1880, plans, long considered by a power and sacred sexual function creates a perfect pan- few benevolently-minded women, culminated in the demonium in the soul. Of it are born satiety, disgust, formation of the Women's National Relief Association, jealousies, contentions, nervousness, disease, and death having its headquarters in Washington, D. C., the obof all that makes life sweet and desirable. Thus is ject of which is so to organize benevolent effort that Milton's allegory of the fallen angel re-enacted in our the women of the nation, by concert of action, may have bearts and by nearly every family in the land.

added to the rebellion of the wife against the injustice famine or war, such sanitary aid and material as the of enforced maternity, and the plotting against, or at least the desire to destroy the embryo. What wonder equitable administration. It has also the present spethat we are overrun with criminals of every shade and citic object of supplying without delay the United tortions, and the world burdened with the support of clothing, and other necessaries for the preservation and jails, penitentiaries, reformatories, insane, deaf, mute, comfort of persons rescued from shipwreek. blind and idiot asylums, with a gibbet in every town- It is desired that auxiliary societies shall be formed in fanation of the most sacred function with which we are life-saving service during the ensuing year, and that crowned. The creative power, in combination with as speedily as possible the organization may be in a conreason, allies us more closely to an Infinite Creator than dition for efficient work in the other directions alluded any other gift. Every infringement of the law of con- to. tinence for sensual purposes to an enlightened conscience | One hundred and ninety-six life-saving stations are

"it is not possible of attainment." I assure you it is. lie with the details of the service, probably few realize Many families are this day trying this method of liv- how arduous are its duties. The force employed does ing. And they report themselves as being happier and not admit of relief relays. The same men who patrol healthier, more loving and cheerful than before.

creative function. Unlike the natural physical instincts hausted themselves, work perhaps hours longer in prewhich demand food, shelter, warmth and clothing, which serving the lives they have saved. are necessary for the renovation of the blood and butld- A crew frequently returns to the station, after the ing up the waste tissues, and the growth and health of racking labors of a whole day or night, faint with hunour bodies, this is under the control of our emotional ger, cold, drenched through and through, cut or bruised, nature, and should be dominated by our reason and will and spent with fatigue. They bear with them a wretched power, as every expression of it reduces vitality and group of the rescued, sometimes with women and chilwastes life force. No man or woman in health and dren in the number, livid, ragged, half naked, burt, symmetrically developed has any desires, but through famished, wet and frozen. The station fire is out, or the imagination or sympathy. Like the shedding of low; no food prepared; nothing ready; everything to tears, health or happiness would not be impaired by be begun. The crews are so short handed that no one years of abstinence, but like weeping, indulgence always can be left to make ready for the home comers and their depresses nervous energy.

social reformers have rejected or neglected. I now pre- end. There is a cot and blankets at each station for sent it as the chief corner-stone of the Institute of each man employed, and, as far as these will suffice, Heredity. If accepted, it will set the institute on a they are used for the wave-sent guests. The governfirm, enduring base. Storms or floods, winds or flame, ment supplies no clothing, but the surfmen gladly give nor the power of hell can never prevail against it, for their own only changes of dry apparel to replace the it will stand upon a rock. Security and peace will wet clothing of the rescued, themselves going wet for dwell with wisdom within its borders, and none shall hours, and taking such rest as can be found on the hard make afraid or soil its pure escutcheon with slander or boards around the station fire. Occasionally circumevil passions. This is really the whole of salvation stances require that shipwrecked persons should be outeach soul must work out for himself.

bodies holy, acceptable to the Lord, which is your rea- shirt left on him by the raging, buffeting sea. Another sonable service.

have learned.

in readiness for any sudden or imperative necessity In this condition children are too often conceived, arising from conflagration or other disaster, epidemics, degree, God's likeness transformed into demoniacal dis- States Life-Saving Stations with beds, blankets, warm every State as soon as possible, in order that much All these disasters follow the desecration and pro-needed supplementary aid may be rendered to the brings its own shame, debasement, and contrition.

Let no one say "this standard is too high;" that enough has been written of late to familiarize the pubthe beach must drag the life-saving apparatus for miles We cannot recognize the necessity of physical expres-sion of the sexual nature save for its legitimate and the perilous work of rescue, and then, spent and ex-precious freight. The fire must be renewed, and the This doctrine of continence is the stone which all rescued made comfortable, with but little means to that fitted with clothing. A man came ashore from the Brothers and sisters, I exhort you to present your wreck of the A. S. Davis with only the band of his was cast ashore without the vestige of a garment. One of the surfmen, from his own scanty store, supplied his We should teach to others the truths we ourselves wants. The Government makes no provision by which that surfman can be repaid. Is it enough that these poor